ACCT7323 - Empirical Research in Accounting and Economics

ACCT 7323 Empirical Research in Accounting and Economics (3 semester hours) This course is designed to further the ability of the students to critically analyze completed research efforts, to provide insight into how a given stream of research (e.g. earnings return association studies, trading volume) develops over time and to further the students' knowledge of academic accounting research in the area of financial accounting / reporting. May be repeated for credit as topics vary. (3-0) T (2016-02-05 22:22:48)