

ECON3330 - Economics of Health

ECON 3330 Economics of Health (3 semester hours) A study of personal and public expenditures on health care, the markets for medical personnel, the medical industry, the health insurance market, and present and proposed health care policies. This course fulfills the University's writing requirement. (3-0) R