ENTP 7301 Technology, Innovation and Entrepreneurship (3 semester credit hours) This seminar introduces and examines contemporary research topics in technology, innovation, and entrepreneurship. Students will be exposed to a broad survey of theoretical foundation from disciplinary fields such as economics, sociology, and contemporary works to conduct research in technology, innovation, and entrepreneurship. Prerequisites: International Management Studies PhD majors only and instructor consent required. (3-0)