ATCM 4323 Feminism, Technology, and Media (3 semester credit hours) This course examines intersectional feminist approaches to technology and media studies. Students learn the history of women in technology fields; feminist approaches to theorizing the relationship between social constructions of gender and technology and media development and use; the dissemination and development of feminist thought and practices; and the articulation of gender in such media as film, television, and digital media. Prerequisite: ATCM 3321 or instructor consent required. (3-0) T