

OPRE3311 - Introduction to Programming

OPRE 3311 Introduction to Programming (3 semester credit hours) This course introduces students to the fundamental concepts of programming. Students will also be introduced to the object-oriented paradigm. Topics include data types, control structures, objects, classes, iterations, functions, and arrays as they relate to developing business applications. In this course students will learn the mechanics of running, testing, and debugging programs. (Same as ITSS 3311) (3-0) Y